Born in Baghdad, Iraq, Zaha Hadid was the first woman to take home architecture's highest honor, the Pritzker Architecture Prize. This floor plan stays true to Hadid's eagerness to experiment with new spatial concepts. The only 2-story plan in this lineup, the Zaha boasts a generous amount of heated square footage as well as a 526 square foot open deck above the garage. The great room has a 2-story ceiling with enough glass surrounding the fireplace to cover the Louvre in Paris. This home has everything and more!

All square footage is approximate. Renderings are artist's conceptions and may vary slightly from the actual home. Homes may be built in reverse of plans shown, depending on site conditions. Minor architectural changes may be made occasionally at the option of the builder. Please contact your Sales Consultant for details.
